on the part of Germany, but in this case the Emperor reaffirmed his faith in God and missionaries and seized Kiao-Chou. Subsequently he sent Prince Henry there and later Admiral von Diederich, to hold Kiao-Chou. I believe Germany will content herself with obtaining an agreement that the representatives of Russin and Great Britain at Pekin will not interfere with the plans of Germany. The Russians are apparently all-powerful at Pekin at present. That wonderful old woman, the Empress Dowager, relies on them.

Japan's Friendliness.

"Japan is friendly toward Russia and England, France and Germany, and, above master General declined to state just all, toward the United States. It has no what time it was sent. It has been apalliances and is seeking none. Japan and the United States have nothing to fear from the acquisition by England of the Yangtse Kiang Vailey. England has al-ways maintained an open door policy with her colonies and territories, and to depart, from this custom now in the case of China would be an overthrow of long-established English commercial principles. With Ja-pan and the United States it is principally a matter of custom duties. Neither country desires to acquire territory in that on a charge of treason, as, according to the quarter. Still I should think the United legal advisers of the President, they are liable to arrest on such a charge. Treason no discrimination should be made against is an ugly word, but the Administration

States would insist upon the promise that no discrimination should be made against her in any of the provinces subjected to foreign influences, either Russian, English, German, or French.

"I am satisfied of this, that the agreement between Russia and England means the United States will hold the Philippines against all comers, and that before executing the agreement England probably received assurances to this effect from the United States Government."

London, May 2.—Hon. John Barrett, formerly United States Minister to Siam, addressed a large representative gathering of members of the Chamber of Commerce today on the condition and possibilities of the East. Albert G. Sanderman. President of the chamber, presided. Among those present were several members of the House of Commons, Mr. Jameson, British Consul General at Shanghal; the President of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. Hom. Robert P. Porter, and Mrs. Little.

Mr. Barrett candidly asserted that the influence of America would join that of Great Britain in the preservation of commercial interests in the East, not through any sentiment of race or blood, but because of the fact that thereby America would be enabled to secure a portion of Great Britain's trade. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Barrett received a hearty vote of thanks.

The First Brench.

The First Brench.

The first breach of this act occurred during Jefferson's Administration, in the year After the close of the Napoleonic wars this Government made a demand upon Spain for indemnity. French privateers had been fitted out in the ports of Spain with a view to preying upon the commerce of the United States and a great number of our vessels had been seized and condemned in prize courts by French Consuls in Spain. The Spanish Government, under the pretended seizure of Gibraltar, would seize every American ship that came through the Mediterranean. Spain said in reply to our demand for the depredations upon our merchant marine that she would pay for the action of her subjects, but for the action of the French Consuls she was not liable, and she refused absolutely to pay anything. Our Minister to Spain pressed that Government for a settlement, but Yrugo, the Spanish Minister to the United States, had previously submitted a hypothetical case involving the exact points at issue between the two countries to five lawyers of high standing in this country, and when our Spain with a view to preying upon the the two countries to five lawyers of high standing in this country, and when our Minister again pressed a settlement upon the Spanish Government he was confronted by the opinions of these five lawyers, citi-zens of the United States. The names of the gentlemen who gave these opinions were Jared Ingersoll and William Rawle, leaders of the Philadelphia bar; Joseph B. McKean, son of the then Governor of Pennsylvania and brother-in-law of Yrugo; Peter Stephen du Ponceau, and Edward Peter Stephen du Ponceau, and Edward Livingston. Our Minister at the Court of Spain was, it is needless to say, greatly astonished when shown these opinions, and laid the whole matter before the Secretary of State at Washington. The President communicated the subject to Congress and that body declared that the gentlemen giving these opinions had violated the law above quoted, and referred the matter to the Attorney General for action, but the lawyers who had given these opinions were men high in their profession and also prominent in the counsels of their political parties, and while feeling ran high at the time, the matter dragged along and was finally dropped altorether. Public sympathy in this country sided largely with France, and in spite of the most strenuous efforts on the part of the Administration, it seemed for a while that

SYNDICATE SECURES

Formal Transfer Made in This City Last Night.

Effect of the Sale on Suburban Excursion Transit.

Plan of the Crosby-Stevens Combination Is to Reach the Goal at Great Falls.

Another local street railway line passed into the hands and control of the Crosby-Stevens syndicate last night when the Washington and Glen Echo Railway was formally turned over to Messrs. Oscar T. Crosby, and other members of the syndicate, which has been purchasing Washington transit lines and lighting plants. The purchase was made outright from Gustavus Stahl, of Philadelphia, who was practically sole owner of the line. The negotiations were inaugurated last week. J. H. Miller acted as local agent for Mr. Stahl and although the sale was practically made last Friday, the final papers were not signed until last night. Mr. Stahl came over from Philadelphia for the purpose of concluding the negotiations and the papers were signed without delay, transferring the road to the syndicate. When seen by a Times reporter last evening Mr. Crosby expressed himself 'as pleased with the deal, saying that every detail had been carried out without the Stevens syndicate last night when the detail had been carried out without the slightest hitch.

With the purchase of the Glen Echo System the transit syndicate secured con-trol of the last stretch of local track system the chanas spandare security of the last stretch of local track which seemed to offer any great obstacle to the consolidation plan, every local road having passed into the hands of the syndicate with the exception of the Capital Traction Company and the Washington, Alexandria, and Mount Vernon Railway. Although the Glen Echo road is one of the half dozen or more lines running into the suburbs, its sale to the syndicate is regarded as an important transaction. It possesses five miles of well-ballasted, double track extending from the Chevy Chase Circle, at the intersection of Connecticut Avenue, extended, and the District line, to a point on the Washington and Great Falls Electric Railway, just east of Glen Echo. From this point the two roads run over the same right of way to within several hundred yards of the Cabin John Bridge, where they separate, forming a Y, which leads the cars of each line to a separate terminal at the bridge.

The Crosby-Stevens syndicate purchased the Washington and Great Falls Railway several weeks ago, and, thus secured control of the up-the-river traffic as far as the juncture of the two roads. Beyond that point traffic between the city and Glen Echo and Cabin John Bridge was shared by each road. Under that condition, and for other reasons, the syndicate found that it would be to its interest, and for the welfare of the traveling public if the two tines were brought under its control. It began negotiations immediately for the acquisition of the road which was formally transferred into its management last night.

From this time on, it appears, the syndicate will operate all up-the-river traffic, which seemed to offer any great obstacl ment last night.

From this time on, it appears, the syndicate will operate all up-the-river traffic, including the very considerable and vastly important summer excursion business to Glen Echo. Passengers going either by way of Georgetown or the Circle at Chevy Chase will ultimately be compelled to pass over the syndicate's lines. It is a source of wonder that the Capital Traction Com-pany did not purchase the Glen Echo line pany did not purchase the Glen Echo line in view of the action of the syndicate buying the Washington and Great Falls line, but since the changes of the past few days that opportunity is lost.

It is asserted by moving spirits in the syndicate that arrangements will be completed whereby special inducements will be offered for summer excursion traffic to points and pleasure resorts along the upper part of the Potomac River, in the vicinity of Glen Echo and Cabin John Bridge. cinity of Gien Echo and Cabin John Bridge. One of these arrangements will be to run through car service out the Washington and Great Falls line to the junction this side of Gien Echo and return to the city by way of Washington and Gien Echo and Tenleytown lines, thence into the city over the Tenleytown and Metropolitan road. The road crosses the Gien Echo Railway about half a mile east of the Chevy tem of transfer at this point of interse tion, persons traveling southward from Kensington, Tenleytown, and other places, as well as passengers going north from the city on the Tenleytown line, may be afforded the privilege of changing cars and traveling through to Glen Echo and Cabin John Bridge. Such a change would prove a boon to residents of Tenleytown and Kensington, and will bring them several Kensington, and will bring them several miles nearer the upper Potomac resorts. The success of the syndicate in gaining possession of the two river lines strengthens the plan to build an electric road to Great Falls. Each river road has long been casting envious eyes at that goal, and would probably have been there before this time had it not been for the diffeculty experienced in crossing the Consequence. ficulty experienced in crossing the Con-duit Road in the vicinity of Cabin John Bridge. While the War Department en-gineers in charge of the Washington Aqueduct would have strenuously opposed the laying of two systems of double track across the Conduit Road at the bridge, is thought with both roads under the sam management some arrangement can cer tainly be entered into whereby one road may be extended to the Great Falls.

THE A. P.'S JEALOUS FAKE.

History of the "New York Sun's Treason News Beat.

New York, May 2.-After the Cabi net session of Friday, April 21, a Washington dispatch was sent to the "New York Sun" and published on the morning of Saturday, the 22d, in which it was stated that there had been some talk at the Cabinet meeting which indicated that the Administration had discovered a plot on the part of the anti-expansionists in the United States to cause trouble in the Philippines of a character not hitherto anticipated. Further along in the dispatch the statement was made that it had been hinted that the alleged dissatisfaction among the troops in the Philippines, some of whom had expressed a desire to come ome, was to some extent traceable to a movement that originated and was being movement that originated and was being carried out in this country.

This dispatch, giving to the public the first inkling of the very serious propaganda of sedition being carried on in the United States, attracted such wide attention that the news organizations called the Associated Press was moved to discredit it for the simple reason that its repoteers for the simple reason that its reporters and not succeeded in getting the important news, but on the threshold of their inves-tigation the reporters found ample proof of the entire accuracy of the "Sun's" dis-patch. The result of their investigations was not allowed to be published in the newspapers which depend upon the Asso-ciated Press for their news, but, on the contrary, they were furnished with the fol-lowing dispatch, which many of these newspapers published, but which others more discreet placed in the waste basket.

A Cabinet officer is authority for an absolute denial of the story that the Cabinet yesterday discussed an alliged conspiracy to weaken the United States in the Philippines. The official proof of the entire accuracy of the "Sun's" original publication, exposng the treasonable conduct of the anti-expansionists and giving the lie direct to the denial of it sent out by the Associated Press on April 22, a denial that was known to be fraudulent when it was written, was furnished yesterday by the official an-nouncement that the seditious letters from the anti-expansionists would be seiz d by he agents of the Government, and that the writers and senders were in danger of im-mediate prosecution for treason if they do not desist from their unlawful attempt to hreak down the Government's policy in the Philippines.
